

Rogue Valley Film to Premiere on Friday the 13th

Independent feature film "COVET THY NEIGHBOR", which was filmed in Ashland and Klamath Falls, OR will premiere in Ashland and via the Internet on Friday the 13th, 2015 at 5pm.

The local Ashland screening will be held at:

Paddy Brannans Pub
23 S. 2nd St.
Ashland, OR

The film will go Live on the Internet at the same time, 5pm (PST) via the official website:
www.Tunnel13Films.com

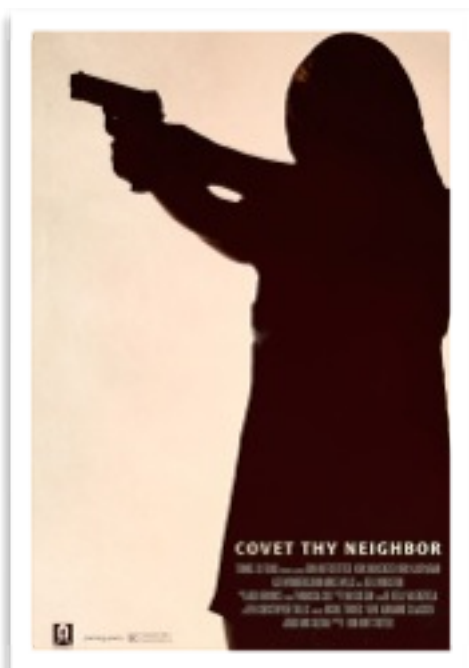

The film is written & directed by Ron Huffstutter, graduate of Southern Oregon University's film program and active member of Southern Oregon Film and Media. His previous feature film, "CREEPER", won the award for Best Film at the 2014 Killer Valley Horror Film Festival.

"COVET THY NEIGHBOR" is the second release from Tunnel 13 Films. It is the story of a man who leaves the city to find business prospects in a small town. The film explores friendship, betrayal, and wanting what other people have, specifically in the form of money, drugs, and women.

The film stars Kurk Kasparian, Kirk McKenzie, Kat Wondergloom, and Mike Wills.

The 30-minute film is aimed at a mature audience due to language, violence and nudity.

Shooting began in late July 2014, and the production was a rigorous 8-day shoot. Final cut was delivered on Feb. 8, 2015, and this local premiere will be the first live screening of the film.
